

Contents

Preface: The Road to Auschwitz Wasn't Paved with Indifference Rivka Weinberg	xi
Acknowledgments	xvii
Introduction: Hate and Racial Ignorance Noell Birondo	xxi
I: HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES, EAST AND WEST
1 Hate and Happiness in Aristotle Jozef Müller	3
2 Hatred in Buddhist Thought and Practice Christopher W. Gowans	23
II: HATRED OF SELF AND OTHERS
3 The Snares of Self-Hatred Vida Yao	53
4 Misanthropy and the Hatred of Humanity Ian James Kidd	75
5 A Tradition Grounded in Hate: Racist Hatred and Anti-Immigrant Fervor Grant J. Silva	99
6 "Woman Hating" as Redescription Kate M. Phelan	119

7	Why We Hate	137
	Agneta Fischer, Eran Halperin, Daphna Canetti, and Alba Jasini
III: HATE, ETHICS, AND RATIONALITY
8	Good Hate	165
	Damian Cox and Michael P. Levine
9	Hateful Actions and Rational Agency	185
	Mary Carman
10	Trashing and Tribalism in the Gender Wars	207
	Holly Lawford-Smith
11	Hatred as a Burdened Virtue	235
	Richard Paul Hamilton
	Epilogue: An Imperial Passion	251
	Noell Birondo
	Bibliography	263
	Index	287
	Notes on Contributors	299