Preface and Introduction.

Total words indexed: 24,638. For the two volumes that are indexed: pages 1 to 1106. Total pages in this volume is 654. The actual texts are not included because of copyright.

The following is a machine index of two volumes written by Martin Heidegger. The first volume is the German edition of Sein und Zeit, GA 2. The second is the same volume only translated into English by Joan Stambaugh as Being and Time (1996).

Martin Heidegger's Being and Time (German edition Sein und Zeit) published in 1927 is one of the most famous philosophical book published in the 20th century; and remains his most renowned book. Being and Time is listed in the overall ranking of the 100 most cited books of the 20th century. Boston Public Library ranks it as number 1 out of 100. Argument from authority, Being and Time is an incredibly influential book.

Heidegger quote: "nevertheless remains only one way." Being and Time, English translation page 397. GA 2 German 436. (1927). "Die Herausstellung der Seinsverfassung des Daseins bleibt aber gleichwohl nur ein Weg. Das Ziel ist die Ausarbeitung der Seinsfrage überhaupt." Heidegger's motto for his collected writings (Gesamtausgabe) written from just before he died, the Motto he decided is: "Wege – nicht Werke" "Ways – not Works" (1976). Martin Heidegger collected writings (note: not collected works), are in German titled: Gesamtausgabe and the standard abbreviation is GA and volume number, for example, GA 2, page 436.

BACKGROUND

The Book, Sein und Zeit.

Martin Heidegger's first magnum opus was Being and Time (1927) written in 1926 and finished in 1927. This partial finished project was rushed to publication, so that Heidegger (1889-1976) could be promoted to full professorship at the University of Marburg. Therefore, he needed a publication. The committee minutes of June 24, 1925 say that Professor Rudolf Wedekind was the one who asked about Heidegger's publications. The chair of philosophy that was once Paul Natorp (1854-1924) and Nicolai Hartmann (1882-1950) was now open and Heidegger need a significant publication to be considered for this position. Heidegger rushed and pushed to publish some parts of his uncompleted project Being and Time (1927) (Sein und Zeit). Being and Time became a singular incomplete publication, which has propelled Heidegger to the forefront of the philosophical stage during the twentieth century.

The manuscript of Sein und Zeit was written and re-written during February 1926 until May 1926. Proofs and galleys were reviewed by a group of his friends. April 8, 1926 Heidegger shows part of the manuscript to Edmund Husserl with last 40 pages still be written. On May 11, 1926 a copy of 11 galleys printed and re-edited with Heidegger's handwritten annotations and his friend's handwriting too: Karl Löwith (1897-1973), Edmund Husserl (1859-1938), Wilhelm Szilasi (1889-1966), and Helen Weiss (1901-1951). The manuscript and galleys were re-written and re-check in to the early part of January of 1927. Finally in March 22, 1927 the final printed book was done. By May 1, 1927 Karl Jaspers writes to Heidegger that he had the book in hand (see Kisiel, page 476-489).

Early in the process Martin Heidegger had a first floor study at 21 Schwanallee, Marburg, Germany; and later he rented a room from his friend Johann Brender (1889-1968) in a house which was a couple of 100 meters below Martin's cottage Die Hütte. Die Hütte is high on a hill above the little town of Todtnauberg, Black Forest, Germany. Brender's original house burned down and was later converted into a bank. Heidegger worked on some parts of Sein und Zeit at the cottage but complained that his two young sons made a lot of noise. Rumors are that Heidegger may have grown his beard during this time as he worked on the manuscript.

In the copy of Sein und Zeit given by Martin Heidegger to Edmund Husserl (on his 68th birthday, April 8, 1927), he wrote a quote from Lessing. "For me the greatest clarity was always the greatest beauty." "Die grösste Deutlichkeit was mir immer die grösste Schönheit." The book was first published with this dedication:

Dedicated to EDMUND HUSSERL in friendship and admiration, Todtnauberg in Baden, Black Forest, 8 April 1926.

[EDMUND HUSSERL in Verehrung und Freundschaft zugeeignet Todtnauberg i. Bad. Schwarzwald zum 8. April 1926.].

Thomas Sheehan notes that between the sixth and seventh edition (1949-1953) 480 changes were made to the text. Plus, hundreds have been made since then. In addition, more recent editions have included Heidegger's own personal marginalia (157 by one count).

Also, changes in all the German editions of Being and Time are noted in Rainer A. Bast and Heinrich P. Delfosse's "Handbuch zum Textstudium von Martin Heideggers "Sein und Zeit," vol. I (Stuttgart-Bad Cannstatt: Frommann-Holzboog, 1980), esp. pp. 359-365 and 387-402.

See by the same authors, "Philologisches zu den beiden Neuausgaben von 'Sein und Zeit,'" Philosophisches Jahrbuch, 86 (1979), 184-192. (references by T. Sheehan).

Anyone seriously interested in Being and Time should consider reading "The genesis of Heidegger's Being and Time" by Theodore Kisiel.

Heidegger on Heidegger Project.

Martin Heidegger's publication Schelling's Treatise on the Essence of Human Freedom. (Martin Heidegger, GA 42, but originally published in 1971 with the added notes from 1941) sheds light on his later relationship to Being and Time. This was written in 1936 with notes added from 1941. In the book about Schelling that Heidegger published in his own life time, Heidegger put a note in parenthesis about Being and Time, which reads:

“(I am not saying that Being and Time has become something past for me. I have still not “gotten any further“ today because I know with ever increasing clarity that I must not get any “further,“ but perhaps I have gotten closer in some things that was attempted in Being and Time)“. (Schelling's Treatise on the Essence of Human Freedom, et p. 189).

Martin Heidegger's own wrtings to come out as GA 82 Zu eigenen Veröffentlichungen. [not published as of 2016]. According to GA-65 Beiträge zur Philosophie (Vom Ereignis) this will include the following:

Anmerkungen zu "Vom Wesen des Grundes" (1936), Eine Auseinandersetzung mit "Sein und Zeit" (1936), Laufende Anmerkungen zu "Sein und Zeit" (1935/1936). Some critical remark and observations about Being and Time by Martin Heidegger about nine years after the first publication in 1927.

Heidegger on Heidegger. When this volume (GA 82) appears it is expected to widely read. Heidegger said about this project, "Auf diesen Entwurf geht alles zu und den Bereich dieser Besinnungen gehört auch die Eine Auseinandersetzung mit "Sein und Zeit". Diese Vorarbeiten sind immer neue Anläufe, um die Grundstellung für die Frage nach der Wahrheit des Seyns zu finden." (Martin Heidegger, GA 66 p.424). „In this draft (Entwurf) all goes to and the scope of these reflections also includes a discussion of "Being and Time". These preparations are always new attempts to find the basic position for the question of the truth of Being.”

Martin Heidegger in a letter to “Letter to David L. Edwards (January 28, 1965)”. In: Heidegger and Christianity.1994, pp. 111-112. Heidegger speaks to the translators about the first complete English translation of Sein und Zeit from German into English.

“Nachdem die von Ihnen veranlasste Übersetzung meiner Hauptschrift ‘Sein und Zeit` sich jetzt in den english sprechenden Ländern verbreitet hat, möchte ich Ihnen meinen besonderen Dank übermitteln, dass Sie sich dieser Mühe unterzogen. Ganz besonders bitte ich darum, den beiden Herrn, die die Übersetzung in einer langwierigen Arbeit ausführten, meinen Dank zu übermitteln. Wenn ich das jetzt erst tue, so bitte ich es damit zu entschuldigen, dass mir sehr viel daran lag, kompetente Urteile über die Übersetzung zu hören. Sie sind inzwischen von verschiedenen Seiten eingegangen.

Ich weiss, wie schwer es ist, meine Arbeiten in einer anderen Sprache vorzulegen; ich bin darum besonders erfreut, dass die Übersetzung so gut ausgeführt wurde. Der Absatzzeit, eine wie grosse Lücke auf dem internationalen Büchermarkt wissenschaftlicher Werke mit dieser Übersetzung geschaffen wurde. Mit dem Wunsche erfolgreicher weiterer Arbeit.
begrüsse ich Sie freundlich
Martin Heidegger“

„Ich weiss, wie schwer es ist, meine Arbeiten in einer anderen Sprache vorzulegen.“ English translation: „I know how hard it is to present my work in a different language”.

How did Martin Heidegger’s whole project of Being and Time come about?
According to the later Heidegger, he wrote in 1963:

"Professor Heidegger - you have got to publish something now. Do you have a manuscript?" With these words the dean of the philosophical faculty in Marburg came into my study one day in the winter semester of 1925-1926. "Certainly," I answered. Then the dean said: "But it must be printed quickly." The faculty proposed me unico loco as Nicolai Hartmann's successor for the chief philosophical chair. Meanwhile, the ministry in Berlin had rejected the proposal with the explanation that I had not published anything in the last ten years. Now I had to submit my closely protected work to the public. On account of Husserl's intervention, the publishing house Max Niemeyer was ready to print immediately the first fifteen proof sheets of the work which was to appear in Husserl's Jahrbuch. Two copies of the finished page proofs were sent to the ministry by the faculty right away. But after some time, they were returned to the faculty with the remark: "Inadequate." In February of the following year (1927), the complete text of Being and Time was published in the eighth volume of the Jahrbuch and as a separate publication. After that the ministry reversed its negative judgment half a year later and made the offer for the chair. On the occasion of the strange publication of Being and Time, I came first into direct relationship with the publishing house Max Niemeyer. What was a mere name on the title page of Husserl's fascinating work during the first semester of my academic studies became evident now and in the future in all the thoroughness and reliability, generosity and simplicity, of publication work." Martin Heidegger, "My Way to Phenomenology"; English translation by Joan Stambaugh, page 80.

"Mein Weg in die Phänomenologie". Essay written in 1963 in honor of the publisher Hermann Niemeyer. Zur Sache des Denkens (1969) Tübingen: Niemeyer, pp. 81-90. GA 14 (2007), pp. 91-102. On Time and Being (1972) New York: Harper and Row, 1978, pp. 74-82, English translation.

Motto at the beginning of Being and Time.

δήλον γάρ ὡς ὑμεῖς μὲν ταῦτα (τί ποτε βούλεσθε σημαίνειν ὅποταν δν φθέγγησθε) πάλαι γινώσκετε, ἡμεῖς δὲ πρό τοῦ μὲν φόμεθα, νῦν δ' ἠπορήκαμεν . . .

"For manifestly you have long been aware of what you mean when you use the expression 'being.' We, however, who used to think we understood it, have now become perplexed." Plato, Sophist 244a.

("Denn offenbar seid ihr doch schon lange mit dem vertraut, was ihr eigentlich meint, wenn ihr den Ausdruck ‚seiend‘ gebraucht, wir jedoch glaubten es einst zwar zu verstehen, jetzt aber sind wir in Verlegenheit gekommen.") Note: the word „being“ in English is in German: seiend. See also Heidegger use of Sein and Seyn.

Heidegger's power of thinking in Being and Time.

Near the end of Being and Time, there are two remarkable passages (A, B) that show Heidegger at his peak critical power:

(A. passage).

“In terms of the possible ways in which primordial time can temporalize itself, we have provided the grounds for those structures that we only "indicated" earlier. Setting forth the constitution of being of Da-sein, however, still remains only one way that we may take. Our goal is to work out the question of being in general. Our thematic analytic of existence needs in its turn the light from a previously clarified idea of being in general. That is especially true if the statement expressed in our introduction is retained as a standard for every philosophical investigation: Philosophy is universal phenomenological ontology, beginning with a hermeneutic of Da-sein which, as an analytic of existence, has made fast the guideline for all philosophical questioning at the point where it arises and to which it returns. (1). Of course, this thesis must not be taken dogmatically, but as a formulation of the fundamental problem still "veiled": Can ontology be grounded ontologically or does it also need for this an ontic foundation, and which being must take over the function of this foundation?”

“(1). Thus not existential philosophy.” MH Footnote.

(B. passage).

“We can never inquire into the origin and the possibility of the "idea" of being in general with the means of formal and logical "abstraction," that is, not without a secure horizon for questions and answers. We must look for a way (2) to illuminate the fundamental ontological question and follow it. Whether that way is at all the only one or even the right one can be decided only after we have followed it. The strife in relation to the interpretation of being cannot be settled because it has not yet been started. And finally it cannot be "jumped into," but the beginning of the strife already needs preparation. This investigation is solely underway to that. Where does it stand?”

”(2). Not "the" sole way. “ MH Footnote.

Joan Stambaugh, 1996 State University of New York.

„Nach dem Ursprung und der Möglichkeit der »Idee« des Seins überhaupt kann nie mit den Mitteln formal-logischer »Abstraktion«, das heißt nicht ohne sicheren Frage- und Antworthorizont geforscht werden. Es gilt, einen Weg zur Aufhellung der ontologischen Fundamentalfrage zu suchen und zu gehen. Ob er der einzige oder überhaupt der rechte ist, das kann erst nach dem Gang entschieden werden. Der Streit bezüglich der Interpretation des Seins kann nicht geschlichtet werden, weil er noch nicht einmal entfacht ist. Und am Ende läßt er sich nicht »vom Zaun brechen«, sondern das Entfachen des Streites bedarf schon einer Zurüstung. Hierzu allein ist die vorliegende Untersuchung unterwegs. Wo steht sie?“ (Martin Heidegger, GA 2, page 437). The second to the last paragraph of the volume Sein und Zeit.

Heidegger and Husserl's Attack.

From:

Contributions to Philosophy (Vom Ereignis) (1936-1938).

“The danger of misinterpreting Being and Time (1927) in this direction, i.e., “existentiell-anthropologically”, and of seeing the interconnection of disclosedness, truth, and Dasein from the perspective of a moral resolve – instead of the other way, proceeding from the prevailing ground of Da-sein and grasping truth as openness and disclosedness, as temporalizing-spatializing of the free play of the time-space of Seyn-such danger looms and gets stronger by many things that are unaccomplished in Being and Time (1927). But this misinterpretation is basically excluded (although not in the overcoming that is worked out), if from the beginning we hold on to the grounding-question of the “meaning of Seyn” as the only question.” (Contributions to Philosophy (Vom Ereignis) (1936-1938). et. p. 60-61)

„Die Gefahr, „Sein und Zeit“ in dieser Richtung „existentiell“ - „anthropologisch“ zu missdeuten, die Zusammenhänge zwischen Entschlossenheit – Wahrheit – Dasein von der moralisch gemeinten Entschließung zu sehen, statt umgekehrt von dem waltenden Grunde des Da-seins her, die Wahrheit als Offenheit und die Entschlossenheit als die zeitigende Einräumung des Zeit-Spiel-Raumes des Seyns zu begreifen, diese Gefahr liegt nahe und wird durch das vielfach Unbewältigte in „Sein und Zeit“ verstärkt. Aber die Missdeutung ist im Grunde, wengleich nicht in der ausführenden Überwindung, gebannt, wenn von Anfang an die Grundfrage nach dem „Sinn des Seyns“ als die einzige Frage festgehalten wird.“ (Beiträge zur Philosophie (Vom Ereignis) (1936-1938) (Martin Heidegger, GA 65, p. 87-88).

In this interesting passage, Heidegger is telling us that Being and Time should not be interpreted as mere philosophical anthropology or as an issue of morality and ethics.

Because of its importance for understanding Edmund Husserl's (1859-1938) attack on Heidegger's Being and Time, I have included two paragraphs from Husserl's famous lecture. Phenomenology and Anthropology. Husserl delivered the lecture in 1931 to meetings of the Kantgesellschaft in Frankfurt (June 1), Berlin (June 10), and Halle (June 16). Husserl said,

“As is well known, over the last decade some of the younger generation of German philosophers has been gravitating with ever increasing speed toward philosophical anthropology. Currently Wilhelm Dilthey's philosophy of life, a new form of anthropology, exercises a great deal of influence. But even the so-called “phenomenological movement” has got caught up in this new trend, which alleges that the true foundation of philosophy lies in human being alone, and more specifically in a doctrine of the essence of human being's concrete worldly Dasein. Some view this as a necessary reform of the original constitutive phenomenology, one that for the very first time would supposedly permit phenomenology to attain the level of authentic philosophy.

All of this constitutes a complete reversal of phenomenology's fundamental standpoint. Original phenomenology, which has matured into transcendental phenomenology, denies to any science of human being, whatever its form, a share in laying the foundations for philosophy, and opposes all related attempts at foundation-laying as being anthropologism or psychologism. Nowadays, however, the exact opposite is supposed to hold. Phenomenological philosophy is supposedly now to be constructed entirely anew from out of human Dasein.” (Translated by Richard E. Palmer).

Thomas Sheehan thinks Joan Stambaugh used the 10th edition of 1963 (see his review of the translation) for her translation of 1996. Thomas Sheehan says, that he has seen the English translation twenty years earlier as a manuscript (690 pages, double spaced).

“VORBEMERKUNG ZUR SIEBENTEN AUFLAGE 1953

Die Abhandlung »Sein und Zeit« erschien zuerst Frühjahr 1927 in dem von E. Husserl herausgegebenen Jahrbuch für Phänomenologie und phänomenologische Forschung Bd. VIII und gleichzeitig als Sonderdruck. Der vorliegende, als siebente Auflage erscheinende Neudruck ist im Text unverändert, jedoch hinsichtlich der Zitate und der Interpunktion neu durchgesehen. Die Seitenzahlen des Neudruckes stimmen bis auf geringe Abweichungen mit denen der früheren Auflagen überein.”

“The text of Being and Time first appeared in the spring of 1927 in the Jahrbuch für Phänomenologie und phänomenologische Forschung, Vol. VIII, and it was published simultaneously as a separate volume. The present reprint, which is the seventh edition, is unchanged with respect to the text, but has been newly revised with regard to quotations and punctuation. The page numbers of this reprint agree with those of the earlier editions except for minor deviations.” Partial translation of the Author’s Preface.

AUTHOR'S PREFACE TO THE SEVENTH GERMAN EDITION. The English version includes a Lexicon by Theodore Kisiel. Translation by Joan Stambaugh, 1996 State University of New York. Note in this English Translation where it says, "Originally published by Max Niemeyer Verlag, Tübingen, 1953." Personal note: Professor Dr. Joan Stambaugh told me she often watched TV series The Munsters while she worked and re-worked on the English translation over some twenty years.

How do use this index?

Because of sorting problems it is best to use the FIND FUNCTION. Nota Bene: use umlauts because the letters sort different as well!! So, again use the FIND FUNCTION to look for words or names (Dignum memoria). Please note the German words that start with umlauts are at the end of the index because of machine sorting of the words. Starting with the German word “Äaumstrecken” on page 646 page of this book (see in Main Index). The Greek words: Ἰδία, ἀπιοφαίνεσθαι start on page 651 of this book.

How to use this index?

Carefully, very carefully!!

Important: it is always better to read Martin Heidegger in context.

Martin Heidegger wrote in 1946:

“Wörterbücher sind deshalb, wenn sie zum Auslegen gebraucht werden, so unentbehrlich, wie sie gefährlich sind.“ „,

“Dictionaries are therefore, when they are needed for laying out, as indispensable as they are dangerous (gefährlich).”

Other remarks about dictionaries and interpretations by Martin Heidegger:

„Unsere Interpretation ist kein äußerliches Feststellen einer Wortbedeutung anhand des Wörterbuches. Vor allem aber ist mit dem bisher über οὐσία Gesagten nicht das letzte Wort gesprochen, sondern es war nur die Vorbereitung für die Interpretation der philosophischen Bedeutung des Wortes. Diese Interpretation besteht nicht darin, die Bedeutungen zu sammeln, die das Wort an verschiedenen

Stellen der philosophischen Schriften hat, sondern darin, es als Grund- und Problemwort nachzuweisen, um so die innerste Problematik der antiken Metaphysik ans Licht zu bringen, in welcher où diu als Problemwort aus und in der Leitfrage der Philosophie zu verstehen ist. Das wäre freilich Sache einer eigenen Vorlesimg.“ Martin Heidegger, GA 31, page 54). GA 31. Vom Wesen der menschlichen Freiheit. Einleitung in die Philosophie (Summer semester 1930), ed. H. Tietjen, 1982, 2nd edition 1994. “Our interpretation is not outward detecting a word meaning based on the dictionary.”

Written as Introduction to the second edition of Kant and Problem of Metaphysics (1929).

„Die vor zwei Jahrzehnten veröffentlichte und alsbald vergriffene Schrift erscheint hier unverändert. So bleibt ihr die Form erhalten, in der sie auf mannigfache Weise gewirkt und nicht gewirkt hat. Unablässig stößt man sich an der Gewaltbarkeit meiner Auslegungen. Der Vorwurf des Gewaltbaren kann an dieser Schrift gut belegt werden. Die philosophiehistorische Forschung ist mit diesem Vorwurf sogar jedesmal im Recht, wenn er sich gegen Versuche richtet, die ein denkendes Gespräch zwischen Denkenden in Gang bringen möchten. Im Unterschied zu den Methoden der historischen Philologie, die ihre eigene Aufgabe hat, steht ein denkendes Zwiesgespräch unter anderen Gesetzen. Diese sind verletzlicher. Das Verfehlende ist in der Zwiesprache drohender, das Fehlende häufiger. Das Verfehlte und Fehlende des vorliegenden Versuches ist mir auf dem Denkweg während des genannten Zeitraumes so deutlich geworden, daß ich darauf verzichte, diese Schrift durch nachholende Zusätze, Anhänge und Nachworte zu einem Flickwerk zu machen. Denkende lernen aus dem Fehlenden nachhaltiger.“ (Martin Heidegger, GA 3, dated: Freiburg i. Br., im Juni 1950, page XVII.). GA 3. Kant und das Problem der Metaphysik (1929), ed. F.-W. von Herrmann, 1991, XVIII, 318p. One line:”Unlike the methods of historical philology, which has its own task, this is a thinking dialogue coming under other laws. These are more vulnerable. “

The following is from a lecture given in 1934, where Heidegger dared speak of nature of language again:

“§ 7. Language-preserved in the dictionary

We said in the previous lesson, language is captured and preserved in the dictionary. Indeed, a dictionary is something of language, namely, an enormous amount of individual pieces and shreds of language. We say Wörterbuch [dictionary], there are in it words [Trans.: or "terms": Wörter] and not words [Worte], nothing spoken. These words are now, however, not isolated at all, not in disorder, chaotically muddled; they are ordered in the sequence of the alphabet, compared to which the spoken word sequence is certainly something entirely different. This sum of words in the dictionary belongs in a certain sense to language. If we now, however, concede that this sum of words belongs to the stock of language-how large is the scope? Are all words in the dictionary? Is it possible to confine language to a specific number of words? Or does language form ever new, and sheds, on other hand, spoken words and words that then suddenly disappear? Which condition of language shall be actually grasped in a dictionary?

Is a dictionary like an ossuary at the cemetery, where bones and remnants of bones of different humans from long ago are neatly piled up so that precisely through this arrangement the whole destruction becomes manifest?

§ 8. Language as event in the dialogue

It is clear: We do not find language in the dictionary, even if the whole stock is registered there. Language is only there, where it is spoken, where it happens, that is, among human beings. We will here look around in order to experience where and how a language is as language.”

Martin Heidegger, GA 38, (1934). Logic as the Question Concerning the Essence of Language, et. Page 21-22.

Please note the German words that start with umlauts are at the end of the index because of machine sorting of the words. Starting with the German word “Äaumstrecken” on page 646 page of this book (see in Main Index). The Greek words: Ἰδία, ἀπιοφάινεσθαι start on page 651 of this book.
