

Thomas A — A Dialogue About the Survival of Moses

Abstract

In this dialogue Thomas A and Jeito intuitively discuss the difference between a miracle and a fact. They conclude that the doings of God aren't miracles.

Jeito. I have never liked you.

Thomas A. Is that so?

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. Do you know why?

Jeito. I thought you were jumping into conclusions. I have changed my mind lately. Don't know why. A recap?

Thomas A. Everything is.

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. So God is.

Jeito. As the first case?

Thomas A. Yes. It's so beautiful. Imagine! There is love. You knew?

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. All those years. All these years. All coming time.

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. In sum. Yes.

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. I didn't believe at first, you know.

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. I really loved it. I love it.

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. Can I help you?

Jeito. Green?

Thomas A. All was green. Yes. Have I helped you?

Jeito. The boards?

Thomas A. Yes. They are here. Can I ask you?

Jeito. Yes.

Thomas A. Moses?

Jeito. You are suffering.

Thomas A. I am.

Jeito.

Thomas A. It's a miracle!

Jeito. Would that give you relief?

Thomas A.

Jeito. Would that give you relief?

Thomas A. I don't believe in coincidences. It happened. It was a miracle.

Jeito. It was God's hand.

Thomas A. Yes.

Jeito. Are you in peace now?

Thomas A. No.

Jeito. I can help you.

Thomas A. Yes. I know.

Jeito.

Thomas A. I heard you. It's a fact. Thank you.
